Bids for Contractors for The Yards

According to www.dcyards.com., the bid deadline for the first building 160 was extended to Jan. 30, 2008. Building 160, the brown and white building south of N St. at 3rd SE (the historic Pattern/Joiner Shop) will be converted to 170 apartments by the Spring of 2009. Master Developer Forest City Washington tells The Southwester that “three other building at The Yards (Bldg. 167, Bldg. 202 and the D-1 building) will be put out for bid in the spring.”

According to www.dcyards.com, the delivery dates for the historic Boilermaker Shop (building 167) is estimated to be in the fall. As for building 202 and the first office building (D1) will be delivered in 2011.

Excellent views of present and future appearances of these renovations are presented on Jacqueline Dupree's blog www.jdland.com.

If you want to find out what is happening in DC in regards to construction, go to <http://dcmud.blogspot.com/> and then search for different construction sites.

Ballpark Parking Invades SW

The Nationals and the DC Office of Planning are proposing new parking lots for baseball fans in Southwest on Q St. SW, First St. SW, Potomac Ave. SW etc. (shown in purple) after months of assurances this would never happen. ANC6D is vehemently opposed.

The groundbreaking ceremony for a wonderful new complex, The Arena Stage Mead Center for the American Theater took place on January 30, 2008. It will reopen in the 2010 fall season. Arena Stage has existed at 6th and M Streets, Southwest for over 47 years. The Artistic Director Molly Smith arrived here 10 years ago. Her vision for the building caused Arena's board to look at the space in a new light. A “cradle,” a small theater for new works was conceived, along with new restrooms, a larger lobby, classrooms for education programs and underground parking.

About 9 years ago, it became known that Arena Stage needed more space and was thinking of moving. Our former councilwoman, Sharon Ambrose was an early and important advocate for Arena Stage to stay in Southwest. The theater decided to remain and serves as a crucial part of the Southwest Waterfront

Mayor Fenty Pledges $200 million to Maine Ave. SW Waterfront

By Carole Early

At the January 15th press conference, Mayor Adrian Fenty announced the introduction of legislation to enable the District's $200,000,000 public financing and a land disposition to a development team led by PN Hoffman and Struever Brothers, Eccles & Rouse. The Hoffman-Struever Team will lead the transformation of the 23-acre site into a 1.1 Billion world-class waterfront destination that will reconnect the District to the waterfront and attract local, regional, and international visitors. The 2 million square foot project will be an anchor to the revitalization of the M Street corridor connecting SE and SW Washington. Construction will begin in 2010.

Hoffman-Struever's plan aims to produce an active, urban riverfront and park system, showcase distinctive cultural destinations, and build upon the existing, strong waterfront community. This was a press conference where the mayor, the developers, and council member Tommy Wells spoke. He talked about the underutilization of the Waterfront and the importance of the project both locally, nationally and internationally

“Over the past two years we've studied waterfronts all over the world, reached out and forged working relationships and agreements with existing leaseholders, and conducted over 100 meetings with regulatory agencies and surrounding stakeholders,” said Monty Hoffman, CEO of PN Hoffman. “This is just the beginning of the process to create a ‘world class’ waterfront. We will continue to work with the mayor's office on making a waterfront that draws visitors from everywhere, but our first commitment is to the people of Washington, DC. The Potomac River is our greatest natural resource and first and foremost, this project will reconnect Washington with its waterfront. We look forward to working with the City Council to achieve passage of the Mayor's legislative proposal so that District residents can see a shovel in the ground by 2010.”

As someone who has lived in Southwest for almost 40 years, I felt a bit of skepticism when I arrived at the press conference. I had heard previous proposals for a “New and Exciting Waterfront” Was this going to be “djà vu”? Talk of a Waterfront Renovation has been heard ever since the Urban Land Institute, ULI, released a study of the future of SW in March of 1999.

After attending the press conference, I feel that the waterfront revitalization is a reality and that Monty Hoffman is just the man to see this construction through to completion. Tommy Wells spoke about the underutilization of the Waterfront and the importance of the project both locally, nationally and internationally.

SW Community House

By Rick Bardach

The Southwest Community House (SWCH), which has been a social service organization serving the residents of the near SW for about 100 years, has been closed for over two years (although volunteers were providing some services at times). The community has not been given any explanation until now as to why this action occurred. Mr. Alvin Hudgens, Board of Director's President and also part-time Interim Executive Director of the SWCH, wishes to rectify this lack of communication.

The SWCH, located since the mid-1970's at 156 Q Street, SW, has been funded for many years primarily by the United Planning Organization (UPO). Effective in October, 2005, UPO ceased funding SWCH, thus necessitating the lay-off of all employees (there were 5 FT & 2 PT). Altho The Southwester has seen no documentation that clearly explains UPO's actions, it is understood that SWCH had not provided much requested documentation of its financial situation, including recent annual audits, and various statistical & programmatic reports that are required by UPO.

When UPO took this action, Mr. Hudgens became aware of many, many problems that the Executive Director, David Brewer, had not communicated to the Board of Directors. Mr. Brewer, who had been ED for about 7 years, resigned in October, 2005. Mr. Hudgens discovered many unpaid bills that totaled thousands of dollars. Note: SWCH operated on annual revenues of about $ 185-200,000.

After many months of trying to deal with the various problems, the Board of Directors in June, 2006 voted to sell the property the corporation owned, since this was the only asset available to the corporation. The plan was to use the funds generated by the sale to pay off all outstanding debts, then purchase a smaller property in the 1500 block of Second Street, SW so that the SWCH could resume operations.

So in July, 2006, the SWCH property was sold to R&R Entertainment, LLC for $575,000. The Southwester understands that the seller agreed to a "Seller Take Back Note" for $ 483,000, so at the time of the sale the SWCH received only $ 92,000 in cash. Mr. Hudgens states that he has very detailed documentation to account for the actual cash payment made by the seller to SWCH.

After October, 2005 UPO engaged the accounting firm of Gardiner Kanya & Associates to perform a full-scope audit of the SWCH books. UPO and Mr. Hudgens

Dean Turner, New Safeway Manager

By Carole Early

As many of you have noticed, the conditions at the Safeway in Waterfront Mall are in flux. After a period of real neglect, things are improving. Everything that is, except the cart problem.

The store manager, Dean Turner and I were talking on the phone in mid January. I remarked that usually only one or two lines were open. He told me that seven of the cashiers were open. I told him that he should take a picture of that.

He has discovered that due to the construction of Waterfront Mall, the security gate around the store was deactivated. He is working with the Police on the matter of the carts. He will have this fixed. He intends to contact the DC Housing Police to help on this issue.

Dean has been with Safeway Company for 20 years. But he has been at this store for about 2 months. However, he is not new to this problem of missing carts. He seems to be taking a very pro-active part about this problem. He introduced me to the grocery manager, Tony Zambrana. Dean had requested that Tony be sent to work with him.

Jenny's Restaurant Receives Community Award

Randall Project Gets Final OK

The DC Zoning Commission has approved the plan to convert Randall School property into an apartment house developed by Monument Realty and the art school run by the Corcoran Gallery. On January 14, on an application by Monument Realty and the Corcoran Gallery of Art, the DC Zoning Commission gave final approval to a Planned Unit Development (PUD) for renovation of the Randall Junior High School, 65 I St., SW.

By Fall 2011, the Corcoran expects to move much of its College of Art + Design into the three original Randall buildings on I Street. Monument will replace the less-historic Randall buildings on H Street with a new 10-story 480-unit apartment building.

Corcoran director Paul Greenhalgh calls the Randall project a "unique combination of the historic and the state-of-the-art" that will help the Corcoran College become "the art school of the future." For Corcoran Special Projects director Jocelyn File, the Randall project presents a "wonderful opportunity to expand our educational programs and community outreach."

For a list of the Corcoran's additional help to the Community, please see the December '07 issue of the Southwester.

New director of King-Greenleaf Recreation Center

By Thelma D. Jones

Henry T. Moton, IV, a long-time District resident, recently became the new director of King-Greenleaf Recreation Center in Southwest. Moton, who has worked in the recreation field for over 15 years, says his interest in recreation began when he was a child. Moton's aunt and uncle, who worked in the field, would share their exciting experiences, and he'd say, "That's what I want to do when I grow up."

Moton graduated from DuVal Senior HS in Lanham, MD, and received a Bachelor's degree in education from UDC. Since 1992, Moton has held assignments at various District recreation centers, including Langdon Park, Benning Stoddard, Savoy, Ft. Greble, and Hart. His professionalism and passion for his work earned Moton a managerial position in 2001.

At a recent presentation to the SW Neighborhood Assembly Youth Activities Task Force, Moton shared his vision for the center. He wants to work closer with the current partners, while developing new partnerships and adapting some best practices that proved successful at other centers. He would like to create a "Friends of the King-Greenleaf Rec Center" and would like help from SWNA-YATF and the community to do this. If you are interested in becoming a member of the Friends of King-Greenleaf Rec Center, please call 202-646-7454. In addition to sports' activities, Moton would like to offer life skills programs such as the SWNA-YATF-sponsored Computer-for-Kids training.

Moton directs five full-time recreational specialists, who serve more than 160 kids a day. King-Greenleaf, one of the mega recreation centers in the District, will hold an open house on Friday, February 22, at 6 pm. The address of the center is 201 N Street, SW. All members of the community are welcome. Moton has a lot on his plate these days and if that is not enough, he smiles and announces: "I'm getting married in November so that's a lot!"

Thelma Jones Becomes a Certified Breast Health Educator

Congratulations to SW civic leader Thelma Jones for turning a challenge into an opportunity. Jones recently became a certified breast health educator through the American Cancer Society. Trained under the tutelage of renowned Lillie Shockney, RN, MAS, at Johns Hopkins Breast Center in Baltimore, MD, Jones was among approximately 50 people who completed the three-hour certification. As a breast health educator, Jones is now equipped to do community education programs on breast cancer awareness while also sharing her personal experience with breast cancer. Diagnosed in June 2007 shortly after her retirement from the World Bank, Jones has been successfully undergoing intensive treatment for a rare form of breast cancer. She welcomes calls from individuals and groups (professional groups, churches, PTA, clubs, sororities and fraternities) to help raise awareness on breast cancer and to talk about her journey and road to recovery. Jones can be reached at (202) 488-3746 or TJones15@verizon.net.

The SWCH Board engaged a couple professionals to assist them in dealing with the problems they faced and with the sale of the property. They are: Henry M. Terrell & Associates PLLC and Donna M. Forrest, financial consultant & licensed real estate agent.

Unfortunately, the buyer of the property has not complied with the conditions of the sale. As previously mentioned, the seller granted the buyer a "Seller Take Back Note" for $483,000. This note was originally due payable Dec. 25, 2006 but subsequently extended to March 31, 2007. Mr. Henry Terrell wrote a letter to Mr. Ronald V. Lee, Managing Member of R&R Entertainment, dated Aug. 7, 2007, stating that "full payment must be immediately made." No action has occurred as of Sept. 1, 2007.
